MACLEOD AND GLEICHEN

The two long-looked-for by-elections—MacLeod and Gleichen —are over and the results known.
The government breaks even, winning Gleichen and losing Mac-Leod.

Amid all the excitement there has been one very important fact lost sight of. In the election of Mr. Patterson, the farmers' candidate, who polled two votes to his opponent's one, fully demonstrates what the farmers can do when they are united. Practically they hold the winning hand in pretty well every country constituency in Alberta, and we would not be a bit surprised to see very many more farmers' candidates at the next provincial elections, and as a result many farmer representatives in our next legislature.
Then the farmer can reasonably expect to get justice and suitable legislation. Instead of having millions of dollars squandered on A. and G. W. railways, he will have millions to spend on roads, bridges, terminal elevators, and other legislation beneficial to the farmer, instead of the bloated monopolist. For after all, the property of this province depends largely upon the farmer and he should certainly have some personal say in its legislation.
The remedy lays in his own hands. We hear of all kinds of combinations in the commercial world, and political, too, as evidenced in recent Gleichen election. Why not, then, a farmers' combine in bringing out and unanimously supporting farmers' candidates and electing them to support farmer legislation?

Predicts Cold Winter

The Indians along the Kootenay river flats near Kootenay Landing and in the Creston and Boundary districts are predicting that the coming winter will be a very cold one. The old timers who came down from the hills tell the same story.

They all point to the facts that the fur-bearing animals are this fall growing heavier and longer coats than customary; that the muskrats are building their houses larger and higher than is usual in mild winters; the bears are starting to select dens in the most protected places they can find, and that the pretty little chipmunks and gophers are also giving signs that they are preparing for a cold winter.

Both the men who have spent many years of their life in the hills and the Indians are casually close observers of the habits of animals and such deep believers in the truth of the instinct, or whatever it may be, that guides them in their continual fight against nature that it will be interesting to await the winter and see if these prognostications become true. Said a prospector who had recently returned from the Lardeau country yesterday: "The wild animals certainly seem to be preparing for a cold winter and much snow."

The farmers are all glad of this fine weather and are all busy with their farm work and getting ready for winter.

Case Affecting Real Estate Men

Among the court cases down for hearing at the present sitting of the Supreme Court at Calgary is one affecting real estate men and the result is awaited with great interest by that fraternity.

The action is brought by D. J.
Douglass, a Calgary real estate man, against the Hammond Realty company of the same city, concerned with the sale of the site of the King George hotel to its present owners. There is a fine point involved, and it is in the nature of a test case.

Mr. Douglass claims that he had the exclusive listing of the property, and that he appointed the Hammond Realty company sub-agents. There arose some slight dispute in March last between Douglass and the then owners of the site, and in consequence Douglass instructed the Hammond company not to proceed further with the sale for the present.

The Hammond company afterwards found an independent purchaser, and a sale was made, the company receiving $1400 commission. Douglass claims half that amount on the ground that the information upon which the Hammond company made the sale was furnished by him.

This is a point that has been agitating real estate men for some time. There was no written agreement in this case.

The case has been tried and the decision given in favor of Douglass' contention that the defendants made the sale on information supplied by him, and he therefore shares equally with the defendants in the $1400 commission, and this sets at rest many a disputed claim among real estate men in the province.

A True Revival

How shall the church become indeed the light of the whole world? By a revival in our own hearts, in our own times, and in our own churches, of true spiritual life. A revival is not a show of hands in Massey Hall, nor a gathering of young people in an enquiry room, nor a goodly number taking their places on decision day, nor a large monthly contribution to the membership roll of the church on reception day. It is a depth and perfection of work of the Spirit in the hearts of individual men, and the depth and perfection of that work depend upon the spiritual life of the church.
The church must rise to the higher spiritual life, or else God must set the church aside and begin to build anew.—Rev. Chancellor Burwash, in an address at the recent Theological Conference.

QUIET HOUR

The End of the Way

My life is a wearisome journey;
I am sick with the dust and the heat.
The rays of the sun beat upon me,
And the briars are cutting my feet.
But the city to which I am journeying Will more than my trials repay, And the tolls of the road will seem nothing.
When I get to the end of the way.
There are so many hills to climb upward,
I often am longing for rest,
But He who appointed my pathway Knows just what is needful and best.
I know in His word He has promised That my strength shall be as my day.
And the tolls of the road will seem
nothing.
Cooling fountains are there for the thirsty,
There are cordials for those who are faint,
There are robes whiter and purer

Christ Loves and Cares for Us

Jesus wept at the grave of Lazarus, just as we do when loved ones are laid away, but it was sorrow so mingled with infinite peace that He was, as we may be, relieved from a spirit of rebellion against God's will, or of despair, or of overwhelming grief. "Peace, perfect peace," relieves us from fear, doubt, anxious care or worry.
Our troubled hearts are enabled to "rest in the Lord," soothed and comforted in His embraces.

It is beautiful to remember that Christ loves and cares for His children more than for all other creations. He does not say to the troubled sea, "My peace I give unto you," or to the quaking mountains, "Fear thou not, for I am with thee," or to the sun in the heaven, "Thou art mine, I have redeemed thee." Such precious promises of peace are for those only who can love Him back; who can understand something of the peace that passes understanding. How blessed to know that He who bore our sins will bear our burdens, or so help us to endure them that they will be light! He lifts them upon His almighty shoulders and we walk with Him like a laughing child, while He whispers, "Thou art mine and I am thine forever."

—Rev. E. Whittier Caspell, D.D.

The Christ-Filled Life

It is said that the sweetest side of any fruit is the side which grows towards the sun. There is no doubt that the sun has a great deal to do with the beauty and flavor of the fruits which are the delight of man. In this casual observation, as in so many facts from nature, rests a beautiful spiritual lesson for us all. What the sun is to the "natural" world, that and much more is Christ to the world of spiritual things. As the sun influences the fruits of the earth, giving them beauty and lusciousness, so Christ sheds an influence over the lives of many and gives them beauty of character and purity of heart. And as the sweetest side of a fruit is the side toward the sun, so the best side of man's nature and life is the side toward Christ.

His Saving Power

Jesus said: "All power is given unto Me in heaven and in earth; go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen."

He displayed His wonderful power while here upon earth. His miracles were a definite attestation to His mission. He claims and exercises that saving, helping power—a power not now limited by physical conditions, as might have been charged in His earthly
life, but a power which flows with authority from the mediatorial throne on which He reigns.

a large and influential deputation of some twenty ladies of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, will visit Stavelay in the interest of the foreign missionary work of that church. A public meeting will be held in the church at 2 o'clock, and it is expected that a large number of those interested in the work of Foreign Missions will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by the presence of those possessed of first hand information on this subject, to obtain up-to-date instruction as to work done and contemplated.

Owing to the scarcity of money in this district this year the Cayley Methodist church has adopted a novel scheme to raise its finances.
Those who are interested in the church and have not the money to give, are asked to give anything they have that can be turned into money, such as butter, eggs, all kinds of fowl, grain, pigs, cattle, horses, etc. Although the date set for the receiving of these gifts until the Lord is Sunday, Oct.
30th, a splendid seven months old heifer was received last Monday, which is a valuable gift, and has already been sold. You may help.

Is there a village of its size and age that can beat Cayley? Although Cayley's population is not quite up to the 125 mark, it has as up-to-date stores and business men that can be found in many places much larger. It has to feet of good plank sidewalk for every man, woman and child in the village. It has just completed installing a complete fire department; and last, but not least, it has a nine-months-old newspaper that cannot be beaten for size and growth, both in advertising business and subscriptions. Watch Cayley grow, for Cayley is surrounded by the best farming and ranching country that can be found in any land, and above all it has the climate and people, too.

morning were as follows: A special meeting of the ladies' guild, and all interested in the harvest home festival, to be held on Wednesday afternoon, for the purpose of making final arrangements for the supper and entertainment. Regarding the harvest home festival it was announced that the Rev. C. A. Mitchell of Calgary would be here to give his magic lantern lecture on "Scottish Scenes and Scripture Subjects." The views are good and the lecturer popular. There will be the regular services on Sunday: the bible school at 10.15 and public worship at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. In the morning the address will be on "The reception service will be held.

Back to the Farm

In spite of all the talk about the boy leaving the farm there is a counter movement to-day to which the boy is going from the city to the farm.

The reason the boy left the farm in the first place was purely an economic one. While he worked at the plow or with the harrow he was getting the magnificent sum of $15 a month, and the great roads offered $60. He thought he knew enough to accept the better job. The farmers have paid the price for increased manufacturing and increased transportation, and the children of the farmers have been part of the price.

There never was such a consciousness of the beauty of the farm as to-day. No longer we see the farmer with the hoe, the clothespother the man with the ox-eye, as we have heard in the days gone by. The change is due largely to the agricultural college.
